Foreign investment shrinking 34% each year

Foreign investment in the Philippines has been shrinking at a rate of 34% each year. This is a significant decline and has led to concerns about the country's economic growth.

The decline in foreign investment is due to a number of factors, including a lack of transparency in the business environment and a lack of government support for investors.

The government has taken steps to address these issues, but more needs to be done to attract foreign investment and stimulate economic growth.

The decline in foreign investment is a major concern for the Philippines, as it is a key source of capital for the country's economy.

US Embassy: No cut in assistance to RP for now

The US Embassy in Manila has announced that there will be no cut in assistance to the Philippines for now. This is a positive development for the Philippines, as it ensures that the country will continue to receive the support it needs.

The US Embassy has said that the assistance will continue to be provided at the same level as in the past. This is a positive development for the Philippines, as it ensures that the country will continue to receive the support it needs.

Converting nuclear plant makes more sense—solon

IT WOULD make more economic sense to convert and utilize the idled Bataan Nuclear Power Plant than continue paying billions of pesos for its debt and maintenance, administration Rep. Joey Salceda said yesterday.

The Albay congressman, who chairs the House committee on economic affairs, believes the government should pursue "in earnest" its proposal to transform the BNPP into an "an earning energy asset without resurrecting the nuclear issue."

Salceda said the country would suffer more opportunity losses if nothing was done about the plant which he described as "already a sunk cost."

He noted that between now and 2007, the country would need to shell out P7.4 billion in debt payments for the mothballed facility, on top of the P67 billion it has paid in the past 18 years.

'What a pity'

From 2003 to 2007, the government will also have to spend a total of P284.6 million to preserve the BNPP assets lying idle in Morong, Bataan, he said in a statement.

"Whew, what a waster. What a country. What a pity," Salceda said.

Faced with the threat of a possible energy crisis in four years, President Macapagal-Arroyo revived an earlier proposal to convert the BNPP into a gas-fired power plant that could generate 600 megawatts of electricity.

The proposal was immediately shot down by legislators, activists and even scientists on the ground that, among other things, it would be more expensive to revive it than to build an entirely new natural gas power plant in Batangas.

Malacañang retreated and said the fate of the BNPP would now depend on the outcome of a technical feasibility study being conducted by the energy department.

Burden since 1984

Built in 1984 by the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos under a deal with the US-based Westinghouse Corp., the BNPP has been a financial burden on the country that continues to pay $155,000 a day to service debts incurred by the plant. The entire project, which the post-Marcos-Aquino government declared fraudulent and refused to operate, is estimated to have cost $2 billion.

Salceda recalled that the BNPP cost was transferred to the national government on June 30, 1986 at a cost of P42.3 billion when it was mothballed by the Aquino administration.

"If the same money had been invested from 1986 to 2004, the P42.3 billion ... would have compounded to P258 billion at 10 percent to P510 billion at 14 percent," he said.

Party-list Rep. Loretta Ann Rosales said the government should assemble a group of engineers and planners to start a comprehensive study on the viability of refitting the BNPP if it was serious in its proposal to convert it to a natural gas plant.

Rosales said the study should determine the technical and financial viability and the safety considerations of such a conversion. Carlito Pablo, with a report from Cynthia Balana

Tough graft-buster named postmaster

By Armand N. Nocum

PRESIDENTIAL Anti-Graft Commission Chair Dario C. Rama, who steered the office through its most fruitful years, yesterday took his oath as the new postmaster general.

No replacement has been named, but Palace sources said Defense Undersecretary Connie de Guzman, President Macapagal-Arroyo's former appointments secretary, is one of those being eyed to take over from Rama.

Rama was silent on the matter, but PAGC Commissioner Teresita Baltazar confirmed his scheduled oath-taking in Malacañang at 3:30 p.m. yesterday, an event supposedly purposely kept from the media.

After his graft-busting stint at the PAGC, President Arroyo reportedly now wants Rama to clean up the corruption-ridden post office.

"The pearl of great price of the Macapagal administration is leaving us," said Baltazar.

Under Rama's two-year-and-five-month stint at the PAGC, scores of ranking government officials, including former Justice Secretary Hernando Peres and Agrarian Reform Secretary Hernani Bragante, came under his scrutiny and were recommended for either dismissal or separation from the government service.

In the case of the two officials, however, Malacañang's Committee of Peers reversed the PAGC's ruling.

Baltazar cited Rama not only for standing up to political pressure but also for sticking to the PAGC mandate to resolve administrative cases involving members of the Cabinet in 60 days.

"He is an inspiration to us all," said Baltazar.

Rama, a native of Davao City, earned the respect of his peers and subordinates for his modest and frugal lifestyle. He was the only member of the Cabinet who took a jeepney to work from his rented room on Katipunan Avenue in Quezon City.

Early in his term, Malacañang offered Rama a car and a cellular phone, but he refused them. He also insisted on paying for every piece of paper he and the media used in his office. He was also known to return gifts brought to his office.

Rama was appointed a commissioner of the Commission on Elections in 1986 and of the then Presidential Commission Against Graft and Corruption in 1994. He became chair of the PAGC on Feb. 15, 2002.

Officials mum on Chinoys' abduction

By Nelson B. Flores

INTERIOR Secretary Angelo Reyes has refused to comment on the reported abduction of three Chinese-Filipino brothers in Cavite over the weekend.

The Inquirer repeatedly tried to contact Reyes, who used to head the National Anti-Kidnapping Task Force, to no avail.

Interior Undersecretary for Administration Melchor Rosales in an interview said no statement would be forthcoming for the moment to ensure the safety of the persons involved. He added, however, that the Police Anti-Crime Emergency Response (Pacer) team was on top of the situation.

"We are doing everything to see to it that the abduction victims would be free," Rosales said.

Police investigation showed that unidentified gunmen abducted the brothers—Paterson, Richard and Jose Ngo—who operate a business at the industrial park in Rosario last Saturday.

The brothers were on their way to Tuna when the gunmen in a sedan blocked their sport utility vehicle. One of the gunmen took over the wheel of the victims' vehicle, but Paterson was able to jump out and escape.

"At the moment, we can't give out any information about the case," said an official of the National Anti-Kidnapping Task Force. "Our paramount concern is the safety of the victims."

"We are not aware of any ransom demand, and we are not at liberty to release information until after the victims are freed," a police investigator, who asked not to be named, said.

Police later recovered the victims' abandoned Mitsubishi Pajero at the University Hills Subdivision in Desmarillas, Cavite.

Press takes up runaway growth

REPRESENTATIVES of the press and experts on population and development will get together next week to take a hard look at problems arising from uncontrolled population growth.

The forum will be a series of seminar-workshops that the Philippine Press Institute (PPI), the national association of Philippine newspapers, is organizing for its members.

The forum is supported by the Philippine Center for Population and Development (PCPD).

The seminar-workshops will be held at the following places and dates: in Subic for PPI members from Luzon, Aug. 15-18; Cebu City for members from the Visayas, Sept. 12-15, and Davao City for Mindanao members, Oct. 17-20.

The experts who will address the seminars are former Health Undersecretary Mario Tagurwa and demographers Dr. Mercedes B. Concepcion and Dr. Aurora Perez. Serving as journalist-resource persons will be Vergel O. Santos, media critic and editorial consultant of BusinessWorld; Juan L. Mercado, director of the Press Foundation of Asia, and Vicente G. Tirol, publisher of the defunct Pinoy Times and lecturer at Ateneo de Manila University's Department of Communication.

Ma. Socorro Camacho-Reyes, president of PCPD, and Milagros G. Corpus, PCPD grants officer, will also be on hand.

CHOOSE NIGHT!

At the Philippine International Trade Center (PITC) in Pasay City, you can choose from a wide variety of products and services. The center is a one-stop shopping destination for all your needs. It features a large indoor market with a variety of goods, including fresh produce, seafood, and electronics. The center is also a popular destination for tourists and locals alike. It is a great place to shop and enjoy the vibrant atmosphere of the Philippines.

Foreign investment shrinking 34% each year

MANILA—Foreign investment in the Philippines is shrinking at a rate of 34% each year, according to a report by the Philippine Department of Trade and Industry (DTI). The report, titled "Foreign Investment in the Philippines: A Review of the 1990s," shows that the country's foreign investment has been in a steady decline since the early 1990s. The report also notes that the Philippines is one of the few countries in the world where foreign investment is shrinking. The DTI attributes this to a number of factors, including a lack of infrastructure, a weak legal system, and a high level of corruption. The report also notes that the Philippines is a member of the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the Asian Development Bank (ADB), but that it has not fully utilized the benefits of these organizations. The DTI calls for the government to take steps to improve the country's investment environment, including by improving the legal system, reducing corruption, and investing in infrastructure.

Lifestyle check flunker turned in by own relatives

By Armand M. Macan

IT WOULD make for an excellent episode in a legal drama series.

Two brothers have succeeded in having their stepmother, a government lawyer, fired from her job after they informed the Presidential Anti-Graft Commission about her embezzled and undervalued assets worth almost P30 million.

Debarred disbarred from the service by President Macapagal-Arroyo was incumbent Assistant City Prosecutor Evelyn Brucena of Manila. She was the latest official to fall the government's lifestyle check.

Malacanan announced on Friday that it was upholding the PAGC decision debaring Brucena from the anti-graft law. The commission had acted on a "verified complaint" filed by the spouses of the official, Rodolfo Brucena and Carlos Cruz Jr.

Having Malacanan's cover, the PAGC noted that it was the first time a public official had been debarred by her own relatives. Lawyer Ramon Rimer Gutierrez, PAGC director for legal and research, put it a little more professionally: "We have broken the taboo about as a well-kept family secret."

In a complaint filed on Dec. 1, 2003, the Cruz brothers noted that their stepmother had "left out" many properties when she submitted her Statement of Assets, Liabilities and Net Worth (SALN) for 1999-2003. Evelyn had declared ownership of four houses and lots in Quezon City, Baguio and Taguig, a condominium and building in Manila, and cars and pieces of jewelry worth P2 million.

The brothers said she did not declare three properties in Quezon City—a P4,304,000 lot in Cubao, a lot and building worth close to P4 million on Balere Drive and another lot and building worth more than P2 million. Also, she allegedly retained a condominium unit and club shares in the "Jack" Dapuyan Highlands Country Club, and a restaurant, computer shop and billiard hall in Malacan.

"Under-declared," the complainants said, were the P1.7-million building on Tale Street, Cubao; the close to P6-million building and lot on 38th Avenue, Cubao; the P376,390 property in Green Valley Country Club, Baguio City; and a P1.5 million property in Quezon.

On top of these, Rodolfo and Carlos claimed that their stepmother's cars cost about a million each.

Cruz denied the allegations, saying her stepchildren knew only too well that her source of income was legitimate—a trading business left behind by her deceased husband Carlos Gutierrez Cruz, the father of the boys. By successfully managing the business, she said, she was able to acquire the properties that she had declared.

She definitively rejected the other allegations that her SALN, she said, because it was her husband who had procured those, and their ownership was stated by other people.

Senior Deputy Executive Secretary Wanda Q. Florio, who issued the Malacanan order on May 16, about debar her decision, she said Rodriguez Act No. 6713, the Code of Conduct and Ethical Standards for Public Officials and Employees, "was clear on the need for officials to declare the assets and business interests of their spouses as well."

"The fact that the respondent's spouse is deceased is of no matter," the Palace said.

US federal agents to check all passengers on helicopter tours

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal agents will begin checking all passengers on helicopter tours in New York City and Long Island Sound starting next week, a move aimed at preventing terrorism.

The move comes after a series of attacks on the city's landmarks, including the World Trade Center, which was hit by a truck in 1993. The attack killed six people and injured thousands.

The FBI is now conducting a comprehensive investigation into the attacks. Agents will be checking all passengers on helicopter tours, as well as those on sightseeing cruises and other popular tourist attractions.

The move is part of a broader effort to enhance security in the city. The FBI is also increasing its presence in the area and is working closely with local law enforcement agencies.

The check will be conducted by a team of FBI agents and will take place at the departure point of the helicopter tour. Passengers will be asked to provide identification and to answer some questions.

The move is expected to cause some inconvenience to tourists, but officials say it is necessary to ensure the safety of the city and its landmarks.

Figure 1 illustrates the experimental setup. A participant is seated at a table, looking at a video screen. On the screen, a target (small circle) and a starting point (large circle) are visible. The participant's hand is at the starting point. The distance between the starting point and the target is labeled 'distance'. The participant is instructed to move their hand from the starting point to the target. The diagram also shows the participant's eye position relative to the screen and the target.

Routine check leads to 2-hour gun battle, 3 killed

By Lito S. Dela Cruz

MANILA (Inquirer) — A routine check by police in a Manila neighborhood led to a two-hour gun battle that killed three people, including a police officer, and wounded several others, police said.

The shooting broke out in the morning in a residential area in the city. Police officers were conducting a routine check when they encountered a group of men. A gun battle ensued, lasting for two hours.

Three people were killed in the shooting, including a police officer. Several others were wounded. The police are currently investigating the incident and have not yet identified the suspects.

Mother decrees police watch on son

By Tony S. Reyes

MANILA (Inquirer) — A mother has decreed that her son should be watched by police officers because of his involvement in a recent shooting incident.

The mother, who is a prominent figure in the community, expressed her concern for her son's safety and the safety of others. She requested that the police keep a close eye on her son.

The incident occurred in a public area, and the mother's son was one of the individuals involved. The police are currently monitoring the situation and have not yet identified the other individuals involved.

The mother's request has led to increased police presence in the area. The police are working to ensure the safety of all individuals in the community.

If it is the goal of some Catholics, among others, to begin an extraordinary journey that helps the world to overcome poverty and build the destiny of an unstoppable people. The amazing thing is that this is the journey that is and behind the words "mission."

Perhaps the most significant change in the new book is the addition of a chapter on "The Role of the Church in Society." This chapter, written by Rev. Dr. James H. Cone, discusses the church's responsibility to address social issues and the role of the clergy in promoting social justice.

While it is useful for "improving" one's efforts by creating a strong and secure self-image, however, it has to be said that the kind of self is not the one generally seen and recognized through the mirror in a traditional manner.
